Open source code offers a boon to software creators, leveraging community knowledge to save time and solve problems. But it also presents multiple potential pitfalls, from managing usage rights to ensuring maintenance to security vulnerabilities.

Join us as we hear from Heather Meeker, a leading legal thinker in the open source software world.

There will also be ample time for Q&A, so bring your questions.